

IRS Benefit Plan Limits for 2020

Presented by Verdi Wealth Management

On November 6, 2019, the Internal Revenue Service released Notice 2019-59, announcing cost-of-living adjustments that affect contribution limits for retirement plans and retirement accounts in 2020. The list below, although not exhaustive, highlights key changes that retirement plan sponsors should be aware of, as well as some limitations that remain unchanged from 2019:

- The elective deferral limit is increasing from $19,000 to $19,500.
- The catch-up contribution limit for employees age 50 and older is increasing from $6,000 to $6,500.
- The aggregate contribution limit for defined contribution plans is increasing from $56,000 to $57,000.
- The annual compensation limit used to calculate contributions is increasing from $280,000 to $285,000.
- The limitation on the annual benefit under a defined benefit plan is increasing from $225,000 to $230,000. (For a participant who separated from service before January 1, 2020, the limitation for defined benefit plans under Section 415(b)(1)(B) can be computed by multiplying the participant's compensation limitation, as adjusted through 2019, by 1.0176.)
- The dollar limit used in the definition of "key employee" in a top-heavy retirement plan is increasing from $180,000 to $185,000.
- The dollar limit used in the definition of "highly compensated employee" is increasing from $125,000 to $130,000.

The table below displays the 2019 and 2020 limits for a host of tax breaks:
